FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PRELIMINARY REPORT:
MAXIMUM ACCREDITATION
FOR RESPIRATORY THERAPY PROGRAM

Program in Compliance with all Standards

MONROE, Mich. – An evaluation team representing the Commission on Accreditation for Respiratory Care (CoARC) will recommend that Monroe County Community College's respiratory therapy program be granted continued accreditation status for the maximum period of 10 years.

The team made the announcement after its visit to MCCC from January 15-16. It will now submit its recommendation for continued accreditation without conditions, along with an on-site review report, to the respiratory therapy program's referee at CoARC.

Final action on the recommendation will likely take place in March at the commission's next scheduled meeting, said Dr. Grace Yackee, vice president of instruction at MCCC.

The team reported a number of strengths of the respiratory therapy program. No deficiencies were noted.

Strengths included:

- Administration and long-term leadership of the program, recognition and support of it as an integral part of the college and community, and a high awareness of it among college constituencies;

- Students who are enthusiastic about the program and have a clear understanding of admissions processes and program outcomes;
- A medical director who is supportive, engaged and has an excellent commitment to the program and the lifelong learning of students;
- A dedicated, engaged advisory committee that feels its input makes a difference; and
- Energetic and passionate faculty and director.

“Bonnie Boggs was specifically recognized for her excellence as respiratory therapy program director and as a mentor for students, as well as for her energy and passion for the program,” Yackee said. “In addition, Nicholas Prush, instructor of respiratory therapy/director of clinical education, was recognized for his outstanding skill set and experience in the area of respiratory care and clinical education.

“I would also like to thank Jack Woltmann, who retired last year as associate professor of respiratory therapy/director of clinical education. Jack played a key role in our success by assisting with the self-study documentation, providing a number of reports that were anticipated for the site team, and helping Nicholas Prush with transitioning into the role of the director of clinical education.”

“This is a win-win-win – for the respiratory therapy students who are graduating and looking for jobs, the RT students who are currently enrolled, and the medical facilities that hire the graduates of this program,” said MCCC President Dr. David Nixon.

The visit was the culmination of a 102-page self-study report on the respiratory therapy program. The report was developed by the respiratory therapy department and submitted to the MCCC CoARC referee who, in turn, forwarded the report with his comments to the evaluation team in advance of the visit.

About the Commission on Accreditation for Respiratory Care

The Commission on Accreditation for Respiratory Care accredits professional respiratory care degree programs at the associate, baccalaureate, and master's degree level in the U.S. and internationally. CoARC's mission is to serve the public by promoting high-quality respiratory care education through accreditation services.

Accreditation is a status that provides assurance to prospective students, their families and the general public that an institution (or a program) meets minimum requirements and that there are reasonable grounds to believe the institution (or program) will continue to meet those standards in the future.

About Monroe County Community College
