FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MCCC LAUNCHES SPEAKERS BUREAU

MONROE, Mich. – Monroe County Community College has launched the MCCC Speakers Bureau, which features 22 speakers on nearly 100 topics.

This free service connects MCCC faculty and other college experts with citizens in Monroe County and beyond through media, service organizations, schools and other groups who desire knowledgeable, interesting speakers on a variety of topics.

Examples of topics that can be addressed by members of the MCCC Speakers Bureau include Monroe County history, American and world history, architecture, church design, training development and delivery for business and industry, holistic health, honeybees, literature and theater, politics, public relations, branding, international economics, entrepreneurship, leadership, kayaking, animal rights, suicide prevention, domestic violence and many more.

The MCCC Speakers Bureau is available at www.monroecc.edu/speakersbureau and directly from the bottom of the MCCC home page, www.monroecc.edu, under the “Resources” link. It features speakers available on a year-round basis, as well as during the academic year only. The website lists the names of speakers and their credentials, position at MCCC, experience, areas of expertise and contact information.
